 NB: As a rule, a period of study can be extended if a student cares for his or her own child who is under the age of 14 provided the child is cared for on a regular basis for at least half of each week. Short visits (a few hours), e.g. at the weekend, will not result in an extension of the period of study by law. Child support payments will not constitute grounds for exemption from tuition fees or the obligatory long-term study fees.*
